

LOCATION PROMPTS

1. Write about a place where two rivers meet.
2. Write about your first home.
3. Write about a place you fear.
4. Write about the place where you experienced love for the first time.
5. Write about your first school.
6. Write about the location where you experienced the worst day of your life.
7. Describe the setting for a haunted house.
8. Describe the setting for a fight, either verbal or physical. Describe everything except the fight.
9. Describe the favorite rooms of your three main characters.
10. Describe a key location in your book from the point of view of three different characters in your book. (Can be any character, not necessarily a major character).
11. Change the location your book is set and rewrite the first scene.

Do this several times with differing locations. Try locations very different from the one you originally chose. Which location adds the most depth to your story?
12. Choose a scene that lacks interest. Choose a different setting and rewrite the scene.
13. Write about a desert.
14. Set your story in a commune.
15. Add two more important locations to your story.
16. Add more of a neighborhood/community to your story.
17. Make your location a more extreme version of what it is. (More urban, more suburban, more foreign, etc.)
